The News

WILLIAM J. BRYAN
This great advocate of peace will write daily interpretative dispatches for The Lima News on the Disarmament Conference. None is better fitted to discuss the various phases of the conference than is Bryan, former secretary of state, negotiator of more than 20 international treaties of arbitration and leader in the advocacy of international disarmament for the last 20 years. He will attend the open sessions of the conference and discuss its major problems. Herewith is presented his first article. Watch for them daily.

WHO WILL WIN THE ARMS PRIZE?

Question Put by Bryan on Eve of Conference

U. S. HAS THE BEST POSITION

First Move Up to American Delegation

(By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN)

WASHINGTON—The conference which is about to assemble may prove to be the most important gathering in centuries, or it may bring the greatest disappointment experienced in generations.

It all depends upon the real purpose of the actors—a purpose that can only be revealed by acts. If the delegates believe universal and perpetual peace possible, they will try to secure it; if not, they will not attempt anything of real and permanent importance.

It is a conference from which any one of the nations may emerge the hero.

The United States may surprise the world by offering so much that the other nations will be compelled to accept the offer and end war.

Japan may announce a willingness to go so far as to insure the success of the conference.

Great Britain may step to the front and settle the discussion by a proposition which will leave the other nations no alternative but to accept.

France may find in disarmament her greatest security and point the way to world peace.

Who will win the capital prize, which in this case will be the plaudits of the world and the gratitude of posterity?

The United States has the best position. She extended the invitation and has the first move. More than that, her traditional policy has been to rely on her peaceful intentions rather than upon fleets and armies. In the present instance, she has a mighty asset in the debts due her.

Suppose the United States were to step forward and say: We are willing to pay ten billions for the progressive disarmament of the world, begun at once and continued until the navies are no larger than necessary to police the seas and the armies no larger than necessary to preserve peace on land; could the nations refuse the offer?

FINANCIAL RELIEF
Billions of debt cancelled on such conditions would enable the allies and their enemies to get together and so distribute the sum as to bring a large measure of financial relief to every nation involved in the war, and this relief would restore friendly relations and permit a disarmament otherwise impossible. The cancellation of this debt, added to the reduction of military and naval expenses would give the world a new birth and go far toward restoring normal conditions in business.

Could the United States afford it? A reduction of one-half in her military and naval appropriations would enable her to save the amount in less than 20 years; a reduction of three-fourths in army and navy expenditures would enable her to save the amount in less than 15 years.

Has this nation any better offer to make? Is any other nation able to make so large a contribution toward the success of the conference? (Copyright, 1921)

U. S. FRAMES BOLD ARMS STROKE

OLE'S PROMISES SALARY TO POOR

Pledge by Youngstown's New Mayor Called Bribery

BUT CHARGE IS DROPPED

Banker Scorns His Offer of Safer's Job

YOUNGSTOWN—(By Associated Press)—George Oles, eccentric market proprietor, seemed firmly entrenched today as Youngstown's mayor-elect. Reports of suits against his election over Mayor Warnock, Republican, by 445 votes, appear to be unfounded. Investigation shows he established his residence in Youngstown in a local hotel with a margin of several weeks over the legal period required.

Republican headquarters, which on election night refused to concede defeat until the last precinct had been counted, at that time threatened suit on the ground that Oles' promise to give his salary to charity was a bribe to the poorer classes, but this project apparently has been dropped.

BALLOTS RECOUNTED
A recount is being held by the board of elections, but its result is expected to increase Oles' plurality, as he had no organization and therefore no witnesses at the polls when the ballots were counted, so that errors against him were more likely to slip thru than errors for him.

Mr. Oles and his wife, who was a potent factor in his spectacular campaign, will leave for a vacation in Florida Friday night, and the mayor-elect announced that he would make no appointments for six weeks. Yesterday he tentatively offered the post of safety director to a bank cashier, a Republican, who said he "wouldn't have the office on a silver platter."

DEATHS PLOTTED

Conspiracy Against Dry Agents Declared Revealed

NEW YORK—(By United Press)—Evidence that a ring of bootleggers plotted the death of dry agents who have been strangely murdered in New York and vicinity during the last few months, is in the hands of department of justice agents, it was learned today.

If further investigation supports the evidence now on hand, arrests may be made shortly.

One of the agents whose death is under investigation was James McGuinness, a nephew of Joseph T. P. McGuinness, secretary of former President William McGuffee, was found dead near Bayonne nearly a year ago. After a short investigation, authorities attributed McGuinness' death to suicide. The same verdict was rendered in other cases where agents were found shot or hanged. Now, however, there is reason to believe that the men may have been the victims of a carefully laid plan of a murder ring, according to Robert P. McCormick, assistant United States district attorney.

BANKER IS HELD

Confesses Theft From Huntington National Bank

COLUMBUS—(By United Press)—Confessing to stealing more than $5,000 from the Huntington National Bank, here, Richard L. Slaughter was being held for the federal grand jury today.

Slaughter was teller in the bank and when arrested told of having taken a bundle of 250 $20 notes from the cage of a fellow teller. Police recovered $2,500 of the amount at his home.

FOCH IS GIVEN ROUSING WELCOME AT PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH—Cheered by tens of thousands of western Pennsylvanians as he rode thru the principal business and residence streets of the city, Marshal Foch was today the guest of Pittsburgh.

He visited a mammoth steel mill before he came to town, took lunch with Mayor E. B. Babcock and the city council, and later looked down into the faces of an army of school children as he thanked them for what they were doing for the orphans of France. Then he rested a little before taking his place in a great banquet hall where he was to speak briefly to his hosts, the American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce. An hour later he planned to be on his way to Washington where tomorrow he will join in paying honor to America's unknown soldier.

POSTOFFICE REORGANIZED

NEW YORK—Plans for a complete reorganization of the New York postoffice as a result of the recent $2,000,000 mail truck robbery were announced today by Hubert Work, first assistant postmaster general. Mr. Work also said armored trucks would be put into commission for the transportation of valuable mail within ten days.

FARMERS' PARLEY IS OPENED

Livestock Marketing Plan Before Meeting in Chicago

COMMITTEE REPORT READY

Ratification of Co-operative Scheme is Expected Today

CHICAGO—(By Associated Press)—For the second time this year farmers of the county meet here today to consider launching of a national co-operative marketing movement. This time it is of livestock. After working nine months a farmers' livestock committee of 15 named by the American Farm Bureau Federation brings in its report today to a ratification conference representative of live stock producers.

Unlike the national grain marketing plan adopted last spring and incorporated in the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., the livestock plan calls for no pool nor contract covering a period of years.

LIVESTOCK COMMISSION
Establishment of a national livestock producers' association is one of the outstanding features of the program laid before today's meeting. More important yet, as the heart of the plan, is the creation of co-operative livestock commission associations at the various stockyards, with allied stock-and-feeder companies.

Co-operative livestock commission companies, which have recently grown numerous, are to be strengthened. A program of orderly marketing is to be worked out. A transportation department is to be created. Livestock statistics are to be interpreted. In addition it is advancing public appreciation of meat as a food.

MARKETING PLAN

What the plan proposes to do, in short, is to greatly extend the co-operative marketing of livestock. It is a larger voice in the marketing house, to do this through a national organization, overseeing, dovetailing and working out plans, and eventually regulate to a considerable degree the flow of livestock to market so as to prevent glut and disastrous price-breaks.

What is expected for the farmer is a larger voice in the sale of his livestock, a saving in marketing costs, a saving in purchase and sale of stock and feeder cattle and eventually a more stabilized market. Thru large numbers of farmers marketing together it is anticipated they may be able to sell to better advantage than the individual farmer does today.

If the plan is ratified today, as it is anticipated it will be, formation of the National Livestock Producers' Association is expected at this meeting. Several co-operative livestock commission houses have recently been formed, and more will be established as soon as practicable.

The livestock business runs into the hundreds of millions of dollars annually and proponents of the plan anticipate a substantial share of this but have no expectation of getting it all. Extension of the plan will chiefly affect small and medium-sized livestock commission firms on the various markets, according to the committee, which says it is generally recognized there are too many of these new operating to handle the business efficiently.

4 DIE IN FLAMES

Mother and Four Children Are Burned in Home

NORTH BAY, Ont.—(By United Press)—A mother and four of her children are dead and a fifth child is not expected to live today following destruction of their home by fire at Kearney, 23 miles from here. The dead: Mrs. Frederick Wheeler, Doris, three months; Doris, three years; Roy, seven; Sophie, 17. Mildred, 13, is not expected to live.

MAN WITH TWO WIVES AND ENGAGED TO ANOTHER, KILLS HIMSELF AT TOLEDO

TOLEDO—A verdict of suicide due to despondency, was returned by Coroner Henzler today after probing the death of Luther Guinther, 22, found dead in Navarre park Wednesday, with a bullet hole thru his heart.

Investigation proved that Guinther had a wife and three-month-old baby in Desoto, Mo., and a wife in Toledo, whom he had married last June.

A telephone call to the coroner's office last night revealed the fact that he was engaged to wed another Toledo girl at the time of the suicide. When the body was found a wedding ring was in his pocket.

Guinther was scheduled to appear in federal court here Tuesday for trial on the charge of stealing from interstate shipments.

The immediate conditions of the death pointed to murder but in the probe it was found that the bullet that pierced his heart entered the body thru the vest and thru the coat or overcoat.

WOMAN DEMANDS TRIAL AT ONCE

Mrs. Obenchain Claims She Is Unlawfully Held

LOS ANGELES—(By Associated Press)—A petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the superior court to grant an immediate trial to Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain on an indictment charging murder of J. Beiton Kennedy, or dismiss the indictment will be filed in the state appellate court here, it was announced today by Charles E. Erbe, chief counsel for her defense.

In the petition, Mrs. Obenchain, according to Erbe, asserts that she does not seek to escape trial upon a technicality and prefers an order for immediate trial rather than dismissal of the indictment. The petition recites that Mrs. Obenchain is being unlawfully held, and that the case was continued for trial to November 22, with the superior court "well knowing that trial will not take place on that date," because the case of Arthur C. Burch, jointly indicted with her, has been set for trial on that date. Full transcript of the proceedings in the case up to November 8, was attached to the petition.

KILLS WIFE, SELF

Ohioan Believed, Crazed by Inability to Get Work

ASHTABULA—(By Associated Press)—Robert Willenow, 40, killed his wife, slashed his son and then killed himself at his home in East Ashtabula this morning.

Despondency caused by his inability to get work is said to have temporarily crazed the man.

The son, a six-year-old boy, is in the hospital in a serious condition. There are six other children in the family. The oldest is a girl, 16, and is a senior at Ashtabula high school.

WILSON TO ATTEND

Will Help Pay Tribute to Unknown Soldier

WASHINGTON—(By United Press)—Woodrow Wilson, himself a casualty of the World War, is determined to risk his feeble health on tomorrow's eventful day in order to "come back" to his fellow citizens and pay tribute to America's unknown soldier.

It will be the ex-president's first appearance at an official function since he attended the inaugural ceremonies for President Harding.

Recently Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, who still acts as his personal physician, asked the former president if he intended to attend the ceremonies for America's unknown soldier.

"I shall go, if I am invited," was the grim reply.

He will ride in a carriage, separated only by President Harding, Vice-President Coolidge and Chief Justice Taft from the caisson bearing the "unknown." Probably his only companion will be Mrs. Wilson.

FLOWERS SENT 9,000 MILES TO HONOR YANKEE

Wreaths from Many Nations Heaped About Casket of America's Unknown Soldier, Lying In State at Capitol—Poppies Grown in Flanders Field There

Tribute Paid Is Such Only as Marks Occasions of Martyred Presidents—Great Parade Is Held by British Delegation

WASHINGTON—(By Associated Press)—Great and small folk moved in endless procession today thru the rotunda of the capitol to pay tribute to the unknown dead lying in such state, there as only martyred presidents have known. The day was set aside for it. All who could speak for groups in the land or for the powers of the world were free to place their floral offerings at his bier. Hour by hour the heaping flowers about the casket grew mountain high and spread about the vast chamber. Flowers that bloomed in France were there and flowers brought in all their beauty from South Africa, 9,000 miles away.

There was not a minute of the day unclaimed by those who would do honor to the dead. There was no organization of veterans of patriotic people over the land unrepresented.

BRITISH TRIBUTE
Among the most formal of the pilgrimages to this shrine of patriotic valor was that planned by the British embassy. From the embassy building there was arranged a parade headed by Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation to Washington, and former Prime Minister, and Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador. Nearly a score of automobiles formed the procession and two motor trucks carried the flowers.

A wreath from King George was among them. Lord Cavan acting for the king. It bore the legend, "As Unknown, and Yet Well Known; As Dying, and Behold, We Live." There was a wreath, too, from Canada, its inscription saying: "But that which put the Glory of Grace into 'All that he did was that he did it of pure love of his country.'"

That from Premier Lloyd George said: "Nameless, yet his name liveth evermore."

And that from India said: "They never die who die to make life better for their living."

POPPIES FROM FLANDERS
There were wreaths also from Australia and New Zealand and all of these except that from India were made of flowers grown in English soil, brought over as living plants.

From the Grand Army of United Veterans of Canada came a wreath placed by Sergeant Richardson, oldest living wearer of the Victoria Cross. There were flowers from New Foundland and from the army and navy war veterans of Canada came a memorial woven of poppies that bloom in Flanders fields.

And beside all the civil dignitaries Great Britain sent to pay homage, Earl Roeder, admiral of the fleet, Air Vice Marshal Higgins and others whose roles in the war in which this unknown soldier died were great. The flowers actually were handled by his comrades of many arms of the British service, men who also fought in France or on the sea in the great struggle.

CHINA SENDS GIFT
All of those filling thru one door and out another, old men and old women, grandparents of some soldier perhaps, were the most visibly affected, tears streaming down their cheeks as they turned around for a farewell look at the flower-covered coffin.

A three-foot bronze statue symbolizing the "Angel of Peace" was placed on the catafalque as the gift of the president of the Chinese republic. It was to be unveiled later in the day by the Chinese minister.

TOLEDO WOMAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

TOLEDO—Mrs. Edgar T. Keller, 63, president of Forsythe Post, Woman's Relief Corps, was almost instantly killed when struck by an automobile at a street intersection in the downtown district here late yesterday. In attempting to avoid a passing machine Mrs. Keller stepped directly in front of a car going in the opposite direction. She sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries. This is the thirty-seventh death here so far this year as a result of automobile mishaps.

BOND ISSUE GRANTED
COLUMBUS—The public utilities commission today granted permission to the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad to issue $451,000 of its six percent mortgage bonds.

The commission also granted a second request by the same road for permission to issue $125,000 of the same kind of bonds.

WILL DEMAND BIG NAVAL SLASH

Definite Program is Drawn for Washington Conference

DETAILS, HOWEVER, SECRET

No Formula Yet Worked Out by Other Nations

WASHINGTON—(By Associated Press)—Proposals to be made by the American delegation to the conference on limitation of armaments, apparently constitute the only suggestion prepared in advance as to ways and means of curtailing naval expenditures without sacrifice by any power of national security. Great Britain is not known to have worked out any formula; Japan is awaiting the American suggestion; France and Italy are more concerned with land forces than navies.

Two days before the conference opens the American proposals remain a closely guarded secret. It is doubtful if any but President Harding, the four American delegates and possibly the highest officers and officials of the navy departments know exactly what the proposals are.

This much is known: PRACTICAL FORMULA

A definite formula for agreement on limitation of naval forces has been reached by Secretary Hughes and his colleagues of the American delegation. The formula is an entirely practical one. It does not attempt to state any general rule for establishing equitable relative of naval forces between the powers. It does not attempt to fix a common denominator by which all navies could be divided and each power assigned by agreement the number of units it could maintain with world approval.

The American suggestion will deal with things as they are. It will be a plain proposition of ships, built, building or authorized; of naval bases; of the vital element of naval replacements, of the potential naval significance of merchant marines and of other concrete, existing or planned weapons and auxiliaries of naval warfare.

Also it is regarded by those who framed the suggestions as a bold stroke for naval reduction; possibly too bold for immediate realization.

Beyond this limited outline of what is going on behind the scenes, nothing has yet been available.

THE THEORIES

Washington is filled, however, with conjecture as to what the American delegation will propose. There are almost as many theories as there are men to talk about it and their name is legion. The explanation given by Admiral Baron Kato, head of the Japanese delegation, or Japan's attitude in entering this conference and her willingness to cur down her naval program under agreement, has added to the speculation. Lacking the moving factor in the coming deliberations, however, the American proposals, it is difficult to say to what extent Admiral Kato's utterance has cleared the air.

There is a feeling in some well-informed circles that Baron Kato touched the heart of the matter in stating Japan's willingness to reduce her now famous eight battleships and eight cruiser fleet program. To that sequence is to be added a third eighth, as under Japanese standards of naval obsolescence a capital ship has a first line life of but eight years and must be replaced by a new ship within that period.

The American navy has no such definite objective. It does not represent an ordered program of replacement or maintaining any fixed force on a fixed ratio of battleships and battle cruisers.

The old British two-power standard, which governed the building program prior to 1914 when he the board with the German fleet. Britain is not today building any capital ships. Four new battle cruisers have been authorized in the way of replacements that side of the fleet, but they have not been laid down.

The exact status of Japan's new craft is not known. It is certain, however, that Japan has not started construction on all the super warships her eight and eight program would require. That fleet ratio, Baron Kato said, would not be achieved before 1925.

ROAD JOB PLANNED

Ohio May Put $15,000,000 in Highway Improvement

COLUMBUS—(By United Press)—State-wide road work for 1922, was the subject taken up today at a meeting of Highway Commissioner Herlick with the 11 divisional state road engineers and their assistants.

Expenditure of approximately $15,000,000 was under consideration, of this amount $2,750,000 coming from the federal government, about $5,000,000 from the state five-mill levy and the remainder from the counties.

Completion of the seven trans-Ohio trunk highways was the primary matter considered. It is expected to practically complete these next year. In addition to this the outlining of a more efficient system of road maintenance was taken up.

OVATION IS GIVEN COMMISSIONERS

Directors-Elect of Lima Guests of Commerce Chamber

400 PRESENT AT BANQUET

Dangers That Lurk Pointed Out By Dayton Official

Each of the five men chosen as Lima's first city commission were cheered as they entered the banquet hall at the Elks Home Wednesday evening. Nearly 400 men and women assembled to participate in a dinner arranged by the Chamber of Commerce in their honor.

As each arose when called upon by Toastmaster Walter Jackson, the chairman of the charter commission, he was given an ovation and applause of approval. The determination to give to Lima such an administration during the next two and four years that the citizens will be glad to continue the new form of municipal government.

COMMISSIONERS SPEAK—Harold Cunningham stated that he became interested in the commission-manager plan only after studying it and that at first he was skeptical, but became convinced, if properly administered, it would afford the best government Lima has ever had.

Ellis E. Jones reminded his hearers of the great responsibility that will rest upon the commission and asked for the cooperation and aid of all citizens. He referred to projects that have been completed or are under way and others that will come up later.

Earl Robinson declared for "open covenants openly arrived at" in the administration affairs of Lima, advocating the fullest publicity at all times. This also has been referred to as "pittless publicity," the public being informed fully of the acts of its servants.

John A. Harley, presented as a hero of the world war, was given an ovation that continued several minutes when he arose to speak. Harley believes that the commission-manager form of government will make peace for Lima in administration affairs. He said he hoped the time is not far distant when Main-st. will be repaved and Ottawa river given necessary attention. "These and other things will require money," Harley said. "Don't kick when you are asked to provide it."

H. L. Breckenridge assured that the same judgment he applies to the details of the purchasing department of the Lima Locomotive Works will be given in aiding in the direction of the affairs of the city. He hopes for a smooth-working administration.

All of the commissioners pledged their loyalty and fealty to Lima and its interests, in every way, placing public welfare above personal interests always.

President R. B. Dunn of the chamber of commerce was the temporary chairman, introducing Calvin Selfridge, chairman of the American Legion bonus organization. Selfridge expressed the gratification of the service men and women for the magnificent vote Lima and the state of Ohio gave the compensation amendment and pledged the aid of the soldier organization in all forward movements.

Toastmaster Walter Jackson hit straight from the shoulder in telling the assembly the duty that rests on the shoulders of the taxpayers in aiding to make the new form of government a success.

"The commission has been given power to do things; they will have absolute control of the affairs of the city. That is necessary if it is going to be a success. There can be no middle ground. It will be the best or the worst government Lima has ever had."

Ralph Austin and Homer Hughes, members-elect of the school board, promised their best efforts in maintaining the high standard of Lima's schools and to do for the kiddies of this city what is necessary to be done in the province of their public duty.

WORTHY LEE, Finance Director of Dayton, Under City Manager Walter, explained in detail many of the pitfalls that await the commission, and which they were warned against, speaking from the experience of Dayton since 1914.

Lee emphatically declared that the business of the city must have 100 per cent of service for every 100 cents expended upon it. The quintette of commissioners was urged to learn to say yes or no, as the occasion may demand, and to have plenty of backbone.

Lee says that there will be politics in city affairs, but that partisan politics must be eliminated. He urged the selection of the best possible obtainable city manager and that open sessions of the commission be held.

The assembly cheered Ellis Jones' mother who was present, when Toastmaster Jackson paid a tribute to her. Fred Calvert directed the singing and an orchestra provided instrumental music. Peppy songs, pertinent to the personnel of the commission, were set to music of popular songs.

BALFOUR ARRIVES AT CAPITAL

Heads British Delegation to Arms Conference

WASHINGTON, — (By Associated Press) — Arthur J. Balfour, acting head of the delegation representing the British empire in the armament and Far Eastern conference, arrived in Washington today with other members of his party which landed at Quebec Tuesday.

Simultaneously the delegates from New Zealand and Australia reached the city, completing, with the exception of Premier Lloyd George, who has promised to come later, the British representation in the conference.

A distinguished group of American and British officials received the former prime minister and his party at the station. Secretary Hughes and Robert Woods Bliss, third assistant secretary of state; General Pershing, Brigadier General Brewster and ranking officer of the army and navy composed the American group while the British official welcoming group included Sir Auckland Geddes, ambassador to the United States.

The train bearing Sir J. W. Salmond, representing New Zealand in the conference and George Foster Pearce, acting in the same capacity for Australia, arrived a few minutes before that carrying the Balfour party pulled into the station. The two groups soon merged and were presented to Secretary Hughes by the British ambassador.

Mr. Balfour was escorted by the American secretary of state from the station platform into the president's room. The two met as old friends and immediately dispensed with formalities, to begin what appeared to be a serious conversation on subjects soon to engage the attention of both in the conference.

GLAD TO TELL OF PROMPT RELIEF

This lady regained lost strength, overcame constipation, biliousness and weak kidneys by taking Dreco

"I have suffered a long time and for months have been unable to do my house work, although I've taken a great deal of medicine was unable to find relief until I took Dreco," said Mrs. A. J. Shiffer, R. F. D. No. 4, West Salem, near Asland, Ohio.

"My liver was sluggish and I often had dizzy spells, a bad taste in my mouth, coated tongue and spots floated before my eyes. My kidneys were weak and I had dull, aching pains in my back. After eating my stomach would swell up with sour gas until I felt like I'd burst."

"I was so constipated I never had a natural action but had to resort to purgatives which gave relief only as long as I took them. I became very nervous and was losing strength daily, didn't know what it was to feel rested."

"Dreco was recommended as being the thing for me so I tried it and although I've only taken one bottle so far I am getting an appetite, the dizzy spells are less frequent and I'm recovering my energy. I did my washing this week for the first time in months. I am getting more color and am beginning to feel like a different person."

"I'm continuing the Dreco treatment and expect to be entirely well. Dreco has helped so much already I'm only too glad to tell others about it."

Dreco is being specially introduced by Hunter's drug stores and other leading druggists. adv.

LONGEST, SHORTEST, NARROWEST AND BUSIEST STREET IN THE CITY

City streets—that's the long and short of it.

That is to say and for the information of the uninformed, the longest street in Lima is Metcalf-st. Some dispute seems current that E. Market - Bellefontaine-ave is the thoroughfare extending the greatest distance within the corporation limits, but the city engineer's office claims Metcalf-st holds the palm.

And the shortest? That will be Short-st, out by the Garford Motor Truck company. Aptly named, the street totals a distance of 250 feet in length, less than one city block. The narrowest street in Lima is a hard one to crack. There are several standard widths adhered to plotting out city streets and there are many that are narrow, but none the narrowest.

Main street, of course, stands on record as the busiest thoroughfare in Lima and one of the poorest conditioned in the matter of paving.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lay no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

To dye or tint any worn, faded garment or drapery: new rich color that will not streak, spot, fade or run, just buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and follow the simple directions in package. Then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. For fifty-one years millions of women have been using "Diamond Dyes" to add years of wear to their old, shabby waists, skirts, dresses, coats, sweaters, stockings, draperies, hangings, everything!—Adv.

The First "Toric" Lens

In 1844, Suscipi, a Roman optician, succeeded in grinding a lens with two different curvatures on the same surface and at right angles to each other. This was the first "toric" lens.

It gave to optical science a lens in the deep curved or Meniscus form for the correction of astigmatism. For 50 years, however, it was thought impossible to grind toric curves commercially, and flat lenses with cylindrical curves were the only type available.

Suitable machinery was finally designed, and now the toric lens, the most perfect lens for the correction of astigmatism, gives better vision to millions.

Being the most complicated of all lenses, its use calls for technical expertness of the highest degree.

Because of the widespread prevalence of astigmatism, it follows naturally that a large proportion of the lenses ground in our factory and used in our institutions are of the toric variety.

1,064 ACRES LAND IS RECONVEYED

Foreclosure Prevented by Action of Wife and Wife

GENERAL DICKMAN AT WAPAK

Commander of U. S. Forces on Rhine Honored Guest

WAPAKONETA — This default of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wine, 1,064 acres of land in Goshen-tp, this county and in Logan-co was reconveyed to the son of the original owner, Crosley Manchester, of this city, Wednesday. The big farm was sold some time ago to a Toledo real estate company and afterward conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Wine. The latter assumed a mortgage of $185,000, but defaulted interest payments and it was agreed the land should be reconveyed to prevent foreclosure.

A conference of Auglaize-co school teachers will be held in Wapakoneta, Saturday. State specialists are on the program.

Since the beginning of business March 1, the Auglaize Livestock Co. has done $225,328.12 worth of business, according to figures in the annual report of County Agent Andrew. One hundred and seventy-one floors of livestock was shipped, the total weight being 2,324,651 pounds.

A grand jury indictment charging him with a serious statutory offense was lifted from Holland Hardin, St. Marys, but he was immediately re-arrested for the juvenile court for a crime of a lesser degree. He will stand trial Wednesday.

The farm bureau in Auglaize-co decided not to participate in the movement to give grain for the relief of starving people in the Near East.

Alfred Rogers of St. Johns, east of here, is a victim of sleeping sickness. The affliction is of such a pronounced character that he is unconscious the great part of the time.

Joseph T. Dickman, former Major General in the regular United States army, who is visiting in this city with relatives, was given a great ovation at the Elks' Hall. He will be the guest at many public and private receptions during the week. He is the guest of Judge and Mrs. C. A. Stueve. He was given a public reception on his arrival here. General Dickman will participate in the Armistice Day celebration at St. Marys.

Clarence Tester lays claim to the coon-hunting laurels in this section. Since the beginning of the season, November 1, he has captured seven.

This city disposed of a large amount of old machinery formerly used to generate electric current before Western Ohio current was purchased, was $1,965.

SCHOOLS ARE CLOSED FOR ARMISTICE DAY; PROGRAMS ARE GIVEN

Armistice day was observed in all the grade schools of the city, Thursday afternoon. In Central and South High schools addresses were given. Dr. Walter D. pastor of Trinity M. E. church, spoke to students at Central High school.

Pupils of the grade schools had impressed upon their memory the cause of the world war, events leading up to the outbreak, America's entrance into it at the critical moment when defeat seemed certain for foreign countries, services given by soldiers of this country and the allies, meaning of the war and results which have accrued from the conflict.

In each grade the program was worked into a charming little story, which was told to the children. Especially was this true in the primary grades.

City schools closed with the session Thursday afternoon and will not re-open until Monday. Pupils are given an opportunity to thereby enjoy the Armistice day celebration.

MRS. EDMUND J. YOST A NATIVE OF GERMANY, IS CLAIMED IN DEATH

Mrs. Magdalene Yost, 44, wife of Edmund J. Yost, 847 N. Main-st, died late Wednesday afternoon, from heart trouble and a complication of diseases. She was born in Germany, but has spent many years of her life in the city.

Mrs. Yost had been in failing health the past two years. She was removed to the City hospital last Friday, where death occurred. Besides the husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. T. J. Shanahan, Terrace Court and Mrs. W. J. Hoffman, who resides at the parental home.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9 a. m. at St. Gerard's Catholic church. Interment will be at Gethsemani.

STATE EXAMINERS TO ATTEND ANNUAL SCHOOL

George L. Gableman, from the state auditor's office, and his assistant, Jason Canfield, who have been inspecting city offices here, left for Columbus, Thursday where they will attend the annual school for examiners conducted by the state auditor. They will be absent several days.

The work here has progressed rapidly and will be completed some time next week according to Gableman. The examiners are now going back to their offices in the city waterworks office.

INGROWN NAIL

Toe Nail Turns Out Itself if You Toughen Skin

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgrow" upon the skin surrounding the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

"Outgrow" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions—Adv.

BONUS BOARD TO BE FORMED

Organization Must be Effected to Handle Vets' Pay

DETAIL WORK IS EXPLAINED

News Items Gathered From Various Ohio Cities

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Preparations were continued this morning to expedite the work of arranging to pay the soldiers' bonus which the voters of Ohio authorized overwhelmingly Tuesday.

Without waiting for the governor's proclamation, Attorney General Price, Secretary of State Smith and Auditor of State Tracy, who constitute the sinking fund commission, issued a statement in which they said that much detail work must be done before the bonus can be paid.

Although no further legislation is necessary to make the bonus a reality, the statement pointed out that the bonds must first be sold and an organization perfected to handle and distribute the bonus money.

Inquiries were received yesterday from bond buyers and state officials anticipate no difficulty in disposing of the bond issue.

The bonds are to be sold at not less than par and may aggregate $25,000,000 if necessary to assure payment of the bonus which is $10 a month to each veteran for each month served or not more than $250 to any veteran.

Which is Larger the Sun or a Cent?

"Why—the sun of course" you will say. But remember—you can hold the cent so close to your eye that you lose sight of the sun.

Some baking powders can be bought for a few pennies less than Calumet—but don't hold these cents too close to your eyes—you will not be able to see the quality—the purity—the dependability of

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

In other words, don't be deceived by a few pennies—the cheapest baking powder in price is often the most expensive.

When you buy Calumet you know that it will produce pure, sweet, and wholesome bakings. You know that you use less because it contains more than the ordinary leavening strength.

Buy it—try it—be convinced.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE

Mothers! Watch Your Daughters' Health

Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established she needs all the care the thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered years of prolonged pain and misery through having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guided her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should teach their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, and from overworking. Do not let her overstudy. If she complains of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, make life easier for her. She needs thoughtful care for a few years.

In all such cases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be given as it is especially adapted for such conditions. It contains nothing that can injure and can be taken in perfect safety.

Read how Mrs. Eichen helped her daughter. She says: "At the age of sixteen my daughter was having trouble every month. She had pains across her back and in her sides. Every month her back would pain her so she could not do her work and would have to lie down. My married daughter recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I read the books which were left at my door. She took it faithfully and is now regular and has no pain. We recommend the Vegetable Compound and give you permission to publish this letter in your little books and in the newspapers."—Mrs. KATIE EICHEN, 4084 N. Fairhill St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Williams will profit by her own experience. She says: "When I was thirteen years old I had sick spells each month and as I was very backward I would bear the pain and my mother knew nothing about it. I read in the daily paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took my own spending money and bought a bottle. It helped me so much that I took it regularly after that until I had taken two bottles and did not have any more pain or backache and have been a healthy, strong woman. I am now 39 years old and have a little girl of my own, and when she gets old enough I shall give her none other than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. C. E. WILLIAMS, 2437 W. Toronto St., Philadelphia, Pa.

For almost fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been relieving women, young and old, of ailments peculiar to their sex. Ask your neighbor about it, for in every neighborhood there are women who know of its merits.

Thousands of letters similar to the above are in the files of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., and for years such letters have been published. Surely it is worth your while to make a fair trial of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Reduce those Dangerous Swollen Veins

Physicians are prescribing and hospitals are using a new and harmless, yet very powerful germicide that not only causes enlarged or varicose veins and hunches to become normal but also reduces swollen, enlarged glands and veins.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Mearns' Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not produce the results anticipated, you can have the price refunded. It is not wise for anyone to allow swollen veins to keep on enlarging. Often they burst and cause weeks of pain, suffering and loss of employment. Start the Emerald Oil treatment as directions advise and improvement will begin at once. Generous sample on receipt of 15 cents, silver or stamps. International Laboratories, Rochester, N. Y. Cost of Living Figures published in recent Bulletin of the Department of Commerce show that cost of living in the United States has not only dropped below 1920, but even below 1919.

Cost of Living includes Food, Shelter, Clothing, Fuel and Light, and Sundries, each scientifically weighed. It is higher than Wholesale Prices because of the inclusion of such items as Rent and Taxes, which are not at all deflated.

CHANGES during the past year and a half have been tremendous, but most of us have been so close to them that we "couldn't see the city because of the buildings." One chorus has been shouting that "prices must come down," while another set thundered that "wages must come down." Each group is so busy trying to out-shout the other that attention has been distracted from the fact that both prices and wages are down. Prices have dropped faster than wages, which is as it should be, and, therefore, conditions are ripe for business revival.

OTHER factors leading to the same conclusion are noted in the following statement, taken from the September report made to the Federal Reserve Board by W. A. Heath, Federal Reserve Agent in Chicago. He says that the volume of business, measured in dollars, in the period covered by the report is 19% below that of a year ago. Since prices have dropped more than that amount within twelve months, it is a reasonable assumption that the volume of transaction in merchandise is in excess of that of last year.

There has not been since 1914 as high purchasing power of a day's labor as at present. Prices are down and the time has come to work rather than talk. Mr. Heath's summary of conditions is as follows:

The employment situation shows some improvement, and the Landis decision relative to the building trades labor agreement with the contractors has stimulated interest in building everywhere. While not yet accepted by all building trade unions, it is believed the decision will clear the way for a satisfactory solution of the present perplexing housing problems in this city.

THESE are important factors, but do not remove all the deterrents in the return to normalcy. The spirit of co-operation manifested by all elements in working out these problems has been a reassuring influence.

WHILE the market movement of agricultural products continued heavy during last month, thus contributing to the repayment of loans at the banks, there is complaint on the part of retailers that this movement has not progressed sufficiently to enable the consumer to liquidate his indebtedness at the stores. Despite slowness in collections, however, the merchandising situation reflects improvement; the reports indicate the replenishing of stocks by retailers and increased retail sales compared with the previous month; however, the volume of business, measured in dollars, is approximately 19 per cent below a year ago.

W. A. Heath

Chairman of the Board of the Federal Reserve Bank

The following table shows the wages paid to unskilled labor by the United States Steel Corporation after each advance or cut since 1915, together with the percentage in advance of the 1915 rate. Even after the latest cut (far more severe than in other lines) steel labor is receiving half as much again as six years ago.

Rail workers' wages, even after the latest cut, are estimated as double the average paid in 1913. Each year's percentage has been about an increase of over $761, which was the average wage per employe in 1913. Lima has many railroaders.

GOING TO WASTE

If you want something to take the joy out of life, start a coal fire in your furnace, then climb up on the roof and sit on the chimney. You'll observe the heat going to waste.

Whenever you burn coal, you lose more than four-fifths of the heat stored in it by nature.

And that is only part of the waste.

Take 2000 pounds of coal, lying in the mines. Some is lost in mining. Eighty-two pounds are burned up by the railroad locomotive that hauls the coal to market. Ashes, escaping gases and smoke increase the loss.

The result, says the Geological Survey, is that only 76 out of the original 2000 pounds are actually converted into mechanical energy in the boiler room.

Out of 2000 pounds of coal, 1924 pounds wasted!

A CHEMIST can take coal and break it up into coke, artificial gas, ammonia, tar, carbolic acid, benzoline, synthetic sugar, high explosive, dyes and a long list of other by-products.

All these are wasted when coal is shoveled in a furnace.

Waste like that is one of the chief causes of high cost of living. Recognizing this, a British scientist predicts that in another century or two it will be a penal offense to burn coal in the pure state for heating purposes.

If you could live 100 years from now, you would find the most humble home heated by electricity. Coal in that day will be burned at the mines scientifically, producing electricity that will be sent forth over high-tension wires. No freight hauls! No smoke! No bother! No waste!

COAL is only one of many instances of gigantic waste that will be eliminated by our descendants.

Future man will dam every stream and turn it into water power. He will harness the ocean tides. He will capture and use the enormous energy of the sun's heat, most of which now is wasted. From the air and ground he will take perpetual electric current of stupendous power.

In future cities, there will be no waste. Even the garbage, instead of being destroyed will be reduced to chemicals.

Engineers will accomplish all this—experts in chemistry, physics, electricity and mechanics.

Those are the coming fields. Young men, wondering what to take up for their life's work should investigate the possibilities and profits of the engineering professions.

MONOTONY FOR WOMEN

MEN have interesting work, meeting friends and strange new personalities daily. They rarely stop to realize the deadly monotony of housework.

There are just four persons with whom a housewife may expect to deal in the course of her day's work—the ice man, the milk man, the grocer's boy and the mail man.

In winter, she doesn't even have the ice man. The milk man is trained to look for the ticket in the bottle. And the mail man rings the bell and is out of sight before Friend Wife gets to the door. The grocer boy is chiefly interesting because of mud he tracks in.

If you had that sort of life, living with you would be as pleasant as occupying the same cage with a wild cat.

FORECASTING THE WEATHER

IT'S rather a homely theme and at first glance, one involuntarily is impelled to ask what there can possibly be about the subject of forecasting the weather to warrant editorial paragraphs. Likewise, to the uninitiated, it would appear impossible to extract from the subject sufficient material for comment of any sort, save and except that the weather forecaster more often misses it than he hits it, in dishing out conditions expected to prevail the night or the day following the statement of the weather bureau.

Doubtless, there are any number of persons who firmly believe that Uncle Sam's weather bureau depends altogether on cloud signs in forecasting rain; that it looks to the flight of birds before predicting a cold wave; or possibly that the bureau attaches predict rain only when their pet corns go on a rampage of pain. These and other foolish notions are harbored in the minds of many.

As a matter of fact, the government prognosticators, forecasters or whatever else you may choose to call them, base their weather calculations on purely scientific and astronomical manifestations. The most delicate instruments are at their command—instruments that record to the minutest detail the slightest perceptible change in atmospheric conditions, which forms a basis for calculations as to possible conditions hours in advance.

One often hears the statement made by people in Lima, as well as elsewhere, that forecasting the weather is a guess. It is not. It is one of the most interesting of the various branches of Uncle Sam's activities designed to be an aid and a guide for the people generally, in planning their future activities. It is true that forecasts often go awry, but the signs for the sort of weather predicted exist unmistakably when the forecast is made.

At that, they are more accurate than the old fashioned ways of "doping out" what the weather is to be for the morrow. Farmers and others whose activities depend upon the state of the weather, give first allegiance to the daily forecast upon the government weather bureau, with long range forecasts on hand for check-up purposes.

DANGER IN DRINKS

HOMemade beer frequently contains wood alcohol. This is learned in laboratories of Dr. J. M. Doran, chief prohibition chemist in Washington.

Doran says that unless beer is brewed scientifically under the most cleanly conditions, bacteria is apt to be abundant.

Every one knows the dangers of pricking the flesh with a pin. Poison from the copper in the pin is apt to cause blood poisoning. The same danger lurks in the home brewer's copper still. The thirst these days take desperate chances.

CHEAT

Nearly half of the gasoline station pumps in New York state gave short-measure to the purchaser, says an official report. The short-measures range from a half pint to a gallon, on a three-gallon purchase. The defect is not in the pump, but in improper operation. Watch the pump. See that the hose is empty before it is lifted from your tank.

Isn't it odd that it is mechanically impossible for gasoline pumps to give over-measure? The brains that worked that out should apply themselves to a pump and hose in which short-measure also is a mechanical impossibility.

CARUSO

A giant candle that will be lighted 21 hours a year for 1800 years made in New York as a memorial to Caruso of the heavenly voice.

This candle will be set up permanently in the Church of Our Lady of Pompeii, at Naples, Italy.

It would be interesting to come back to earth in the year 3721, when the giant candle is lit for the last time, and find out whether any one will be able to tell who Caruso was, without consulting dusty records.

Caruso was a great man, but 1800 years is a long time.

Alexander the Great conquered the earth 2200 years ago. But now

THREE YEARS AGO

(BY DR. W. E. BAILEY.)
Three years ago tonight—do you remember it?

I do not think it was the whistles that awakened us. It seems to me I awakened just an instant before the first whistle blew. It was 2:30 in the morning of Monday November 11, 1918.

What a day it was that followed! What tumult, what hilarity, what unrestrained mirth!

Peace had come! And with it had come everything we loved and hoped for!

So we thought, and I am not ready yet to admit that we were wholly mistaken. But I think strange thoughts on this eve of the third anniversary of the armistice.

Our boys came back—my own three sons, and the sons of my neighbors. I had marched from the Municipal Building to the train in the town where I live with one comrade after another, and in the case of scores of the boys I was the last man in their home town with whom they shook hands as the train pulled out.

Their parents saw them through a barred inclosure which they might not pass; I was permitted, and a few others with me, to spend the last few minutes with them on the platform, and to bid them their last Goodbye.

And I was there when they came back.

Why did they go forth to "the world's mad-house" as a father said bitterly to me as we walked away from the station together after his one son had gone forth to war? We sent them into "a war to end war."

And some of them died over there in that "war to end war." We meant it, too; and three years ago tonight we were sure that we were at the dawn of it.

We may be three years nearer to that dawn tonight than we seemed to be then.

Saturday there convenes in Washington a body of men who may really do what we sent our boys across the sea to do.

Let no man speak otherwise than reverently of what is to occur during the conference. Let us be in it, and hope for it and pray for it. Let us pray for it more earnestly even than three years ago tonight we prayed for peace. Let us and let all America highly resolve "that these dead shall not have died in vain."

May God bless and guide the disarmament conference at Washington.

POWER

A Canadian Pacific train with one car hauled 165,000 bushels of wheat, said to break the world's record. The train was nearly a mile long with 110 fully loaded cars.

Modern man certainly is chaining power.

Alexander the Great mourned because there were no more conquests for him to make. He thought he had conquered everything, yet it never occurred to him to invade the simple battlefield of transportation.

In Alexander's day, to move 165,000 bushels of wheat required at least 35,000 camels.

ORDERS

Franklin Automobile company says its recent price cut increased orders 94 per cent.

An eastern textile company, flooded with orders, experimented by raising its prices. Orders stopped coming.

Europe's revival awaits only low price of prices—especially rents and freight rates.

EARTH

Mother Earth is a dancer, performing 14 different movements as she whirls onward thru space, says Camille Flammarion, French astronomer.

Mother Earth has a good skin, or crust, and will support human life for another billion years, says Lord Raleigh, at a convention of British scientists.

An Italian professor says he soon will have a screen that will free us from gravity and enable us to leave the earth and fly off into space, among the stars.

Why speculate about Mars, when we are just beginning to learn about the mysterious earth, mother of us all, who brings our bodies out of her soul and claims us when life has run its course?

JAGS

More drunkenness in America than anywhere else in the world, says Gaston Monnet, traveling investigator for a French brandy concern.

Come back in 10 years, my dear Caston. Drunks will be rare then.

Most jags now come from home-made hooch. After the novelty wears off, cellar chemists will decide it's more bother than it's worth.

THE COMFORT STATION

Take his crutches, of dodging a swarm of hard working, hard driving automobiles and trucks. It's an even bet whether he gets back to the sidewalk or collects his life insurance.

There is a simple, sensible method of solving this matter.

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well
VENTILATION

People can live without food for days and without water for hours, but without air—only a few minutes. It is readily seen then that the air supply is of prime importance.

The mere construction of the proper kind of buildings does not insure good ventilation. The most important features of ventilation are motion, eagerness and the proper degree of humidity and freshness.

Most people are unreasonably afraid of air in motion or drafts. A gentle draft is generally one of the best friends which the sincere seeker of health can find. Of course, a strong draft directed against some exposed part of the body, causing a local chill for any length of time, is naturally undesirable.

But the ordinary draft results from good ventilation, is healthful. The best sort of ventilation is usually to be had thru the windows. It is advisable to keep windows open almost always in summer and often in winter.

Whenever practical one should have an entrance for fresh air and an exit for stale air at opposite sides of the room. Where there cannot be a cross-current of air such as this, circulation may be established by opening a window both at top and bottom.

Window boards, simple means for letting air in during the winter, deflecting it upward so that the air will reach the breathing zone without chilling the feet, are excellent. For the lack of such simple things most people go thru an entire winter without raising a window.

When it is necessary to be saving of gas or coal, a partial substitute for ventilation can be secured thru an electric fan.

The importance of coolness of air is almost as little appreciated as the importance of motion of air. Most people enervate themselves by heat, especially in winter.

The temperature of living rooms and work rooms should never go above 70 degrees and for young people and those who have not lost largely in vigor, a temperature of 5 to 10 degrees lower is preferable. Heat is depressing. It lowers both mental and muscular efficiency.

In the cold season, indoor air is often too dry and may be moistened to advantage. This may be done to some extent by heating water in large pans or open pots.

In very cold, dry weather, the air supply of an ordinary medium-sized house requires the addition of not less than 10 gallons of moisture every 24 hours and sometimes much more.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisided cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as it can't possibly injure a hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonful will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, lustrous and easy to manage.

You may use Multisided cocoon oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Serves about 2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily made at home in just a few moments. It is cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops ordinary coughs or chest colds in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounce bottles in a pint bottle; then fill it up with pure granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup.

Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly breaks the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the coughing, soothes your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes of the throat and air passages. It has directions and don't accept anything else. Guarantee to refund the full price of the medicine or money returned. The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Turpentine's Magic Power Kills Pain!

Turpentine kills pain QUICK! Science tells how it penetrates right down into the pain. Starts driving pain out at once! Your pains soon vanish as if by magic.

New discovery. Turpentine, combined with Turpentine's mysterious healing powers with other amazing healing agents. Does not burn, smart, blister or stain—is not greasy or smelly! Breaks up colds, sore throat, whooping cough, tonsillitis, rheumatic pain, lumbago, pleurisy, catarrh and neuritis. Instantly acts in relief of headache, foot misery, burns, cuts, aches and sprains. Turpentine has such wonderful penetrating healing power that, applied externally, the body immediately absorbs it. Just rubbing a little on the chest or throat works so thoroughly and quickly that a faint scent can actually be noticed on the breath almost at once.

Don't suffer! Don't ache! Kill pain QUICK with Turpentine! The Turpentine Ointment contains the most other old reliable, household remedy—Camphor—50 and 60c a jar.

COOKING LESSONS: There is, of course, the right and wrong way to cook meats, eggs, cake, pie and bread. Sister Mary has written five articles in which she tells you the right way. The first, dealing with meats, appears today. Others will follow. They are well worth reading.

BEAUTY AND BRAINS.

EDITH MAE PATTERSON

PINE BLUFFS, Ark. — (By NEA service) — Roy, page the scientist who said a girl can't be both beautiful and intelligent.

We want him to meet Miss Edith Mae Patterson, 13-year-old teacher of the fourth grade at the Lakeside Public School here.

Miss Patterson recently won a prize as the most beautiful girl among 7,000 who were entered in a national beauty contest. And as for her mental equipment—

She was a real prodigy in school and at 16 was graduated from Pine Bluff, Ark. At 17 she started imparting her knowledge to others as a school teacher.

Cooking meats to proper tenderness and with the proper taste may be easy or hard. It all depends upon the attention you pay to preparation and upon the keeping of your eye upon the meat, after it is in the oven.

TO BROWN A BEEF STEAK.
Choose either porterhouse, sirloin or the fillet of beef. The meat should be firm and fine grained in texture and of a bright red color. The fat should be creamy and firm. White or yellow fat does not mean a good piece of meat. The steak should be cut from 1 1/2 inches to 2 1/2 inches thick.

Grease the wires of the broiler with a piece of fat from the meat. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth and trim off most of the fat on a porterhouse, or sirloin steak, but leave a thin edge. Remove the suet. Put meat on the broiler within an inch of the flame. Sear quickly and turn.

Sear and turn back to the first side. Let cook one minute and turn. Cook one minute and turn again. This repeated turning prevents the meat from escaping. It will take 10 minutes to broil a steak cut 1 1/2 inches thick if wanted rare and fifteen minutes well done.

If meat must be literally "well done" it should never be broiled in a broiler—but should be pan-broiled. To pan-broil a steak an iron frying pan is necessary. Have the pan very hot and the fire very hot. When the pan is hot rub a piece of the fat trimmed from the meat over the bottom. This just oils the pan. Put the meat in the pan and turn just as it broiling under the flame.

If steak is to be broiled over a wood or coal fire the coals must be clear and glowing and the bed deep. Grease both sides of the steak thoroughly before putting in the meat and turn every ten seconds for the first two minutes.

POT-ROASTING.

The cut known as the sitchbone makes an excellent pot-roast. Melt lard in a pot, put out fat from the meat in the bottom of an iron or aluminum kettle with a tight-fitting cover. Wipe meat with a damp cloth and sear quickly on all sides in the hot fat. There should be just enough fat to prevent the meat from sticking to the kettle. Pour over the meat water enough to cover the top of the meat. Cover tightly and simmer until tender. Allow forty-five minutes per pound for cooking. Add

1-2 teaspoon salt per pound the last hour of cooking. The cover must fit the kettle closely to prevent the water from boiling away. Make a gravy of the juice the meat was cooked in.

To make the gravy use 1 1/2 table-spoons flour to each cup of liquid. Put the flour in a small bowl. Add cold water slowly, stirring constantly until a smooth, thin paste is made. Pour this in a thin stream into the boiling liquid. Stir and let boil three minutes.

Season with salt and pepper and pour two minutes longer. It should not be necessary to strain the gravy if the flour is made into a perfectly smooth paste. The salt may be put into the dry flour in the proportion of 1-2 teaspoon salt to 1 tablespoon flour.

TO ROAST BEEF.
A rib is considered the best. The ribs may be left on and the roast is known as standing rib roast. The meat may be stripped from the bone and the ribs removed. This is known as a rolled rib roast.

Wipe meat with a damp cloth, rub with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and put in the roaster in a hot oven. The oven should be hot enough for the first fifteen minutes to completely sear the surface of the meat. Then reduce the heat and add enough water to cover the bottom of the pan. If a self basting roaster is used, the meat will require watching and turning from time to time to insure even roasting. If a self basting roaster is not used baste every fifteen minutes with the drippings in the pan. To baste is to pour the juice from the meat over the meat by means of a big spoon.

A roast that is not very fat should have very thin slices of fat pork put over it. Allow from an hour and a half to two hours time to roast a five-pound roast (rolled). Let the water cook away until clear fat is left in the pan. When the liquid in the pan stops bubbling the fat will be clear.

Pour off all the fat but two table-spoonsful. Stir in two table-spoons flour and let brown. Add water slowly, stirring constantly until the gravy is smooth and the right thickness. It will take about 2 cups of water. Stir over the fire for three minutes and add salt and pepper. Cook two minutes longer and serve in a gravy dish.

With a self basting roaster in the bottom of the roaster should be dredged with flour. As the fat in the meat melts and drips the flour is absorbed and slowly becomes a rich brown during the roasting.

BANKS CLOSED ALL DAY FRIDAY.

Mrs. J. J. Culp was hostess to the members of the Ladies' Aid society of Humo M. E. church, Wednesday. Following the business session a social hour was enjoyed and a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess. Those present included Mrs. Lon Settlemyre, Mrs. E. C. Youkum, Mrs. C. E. McClintock, Mrs. Harley Beeler, Mrs. Val Bowsher, Mrs. Charles McClintock, Mrs. J. D. Richie, Miss Jessie Bowsher, Mrs. J. T. Phetteplace and the hostess.

Next meeting of the society will be held Wednesday, December 14, with Mrs. Charles McClintock at her home one mile south of Humo.

Mrs. Kent W. Hughes, of Lakeview-ave, opened her home to the members of the Mercy Circle of King's Daughters, Wednesday at an all day meeting. The morning was devoted to sewing for the visiting nurse of the Red Cross. Plans were made to furnish supplies for the Day Nursery in the future. In January an evening affair, probably in the form of a military canteen, will be given by the circle. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Frank Moke, Mrs. Hughes, first assistant leader, presided. Assistant hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. C. E. Schell, Mrs. B. A. Gramm and Mrs. Grace Enck. Mrs. Nannie Hughes and Mrs. F. H. Jones, of Middletown, were guests.

Next meeting will be held in December with Mrs. E. R. Lindemuth, of Lincoln-ave, with Mrs. Ralph Leete, Mrs. Kirk B. O'Ferrall and Mrs. E. C. Baird as assistant hostesses.

Miss Kathryn Phillips, of S. Jameson-ave, was hostess to the members of the Zenith Club and her guests at her home Wednesday evening. Five hundred was enjoyed and at the conclusion of play with Miss Clara De Curtin holding high score among the members and Miss Margaret McFadden among the guests, the hostess served a dainty two course luncheon.

Members present included: Misses Elizabeth De Curtin, Alvina Cardosi, Dorothy Stolzenbach, Esther Wagner, Clara DeCurtin, Allee Conelli and the hostess. Guests were Misses Muriel Neuman and Margaret McFadden.

The club will meet in a fortnight with Miss Alvina Cardosi, of W. Market-st.

Iris Bridge club will meet Friday at 2 p. m. with Mrs. C. L. Fess, of 1040 W. High-st.

Miss Geneva Plummer, of E. Euclid-st, left Wednesday for Long Beach, Cal., for an extended visit.

Honoring Mrs. J. O. Ohler, of Los Angeles, Mrs. O. B. Solfridge, of W. Market-st, welcomed the members of the Woman's Bridge club at a party given at her home Wednesday. Bridge was enjoyed through the afternoon, Mrs. George Vicary holding high score. Mrs. Ohler was presented with a gift.

Young Ladies' Aid Society of Methodist Free-church church, met with Mrs. Harry L. Pew, W. Elm-st, Wednesday afternoon. During the business session plans were made for a dinner to be served at the church, Tuesday. A social hour followed and a dainty repast was served by the hostess.

Twenty-four members of the Loyal Circle of Bethany Lutheran church enjoyed a meeting with Mrs. M. P. Bloom, of High-ave, Tuesday. Mrs. Roy Evans and Mrs. C. G. Estlin acted as assistant hostesses. In interesting conversation Mrs. Edward Vesper and Miss Margaret Moyer were successful. At a late hour the hostesses served a dainty lunch.

Mrs. J. Orville Edling, of Marion-ave, entertained the members of the Clover Leaf club Wednesday evening at her home. Needlework and a contest in which Mrs. Clarence Horne was successful, were the diversions of the evening. At a late hour a dainty lunch was served.

Next meeting will be held with Mrs. Walter Mackin, of Marion-ave.

WOMAN'S MUSIC CLUB PRESENTS BIG ORCHESTRA

DOUBTLESS the concert to be presented at Memorial Hall, Thursday evening, by the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra under the auspices of the Woman's Music club will bring forth a large assemblage of people interested in music.

The Cleveland Symphony Orchestra has the largest percentage of American born and American trained musicians among symphony organizations. Each player has qualified for his particular position on the merit of his last performance, his present worth and his future possibilities. The prestige of the orchestra among its contemporaries is said to be attributable to the imaginative, virile direction of the conductor, Nikolai Sokoloff.

Heredit and environment played their part in shaping Mr. Sokoloff's destiny. At the age of 12 he came to this country from Russia and at 13 won a scholarship in the school of music. At the age of 17 he became a first violin in the Boston Symphony orchestra under conductor Gerick. At 21 years of age he voyaged to Europe where he studied under some of the foremost conductors. Upon his return to this country he became concertmaster of the Russian, Symphony Orchestra. Going back to Europe again he became famous as a violinist in Paris and London and was appointed conductor of an orchestra in Moscow. Upon his return to America in 1914 he assumed the conductorship of the San Francisco Philharmonic Orchestra. Mr. Sokoloff has also been a guest conductor of the Cincinnati and Chicago Symphony Orchestras.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Jay, of Friday-rd, left Thursday noon for Washington, D. C., where they were called by the serious illness of a nephew of Mr. Jay.

Mrs. Eva Schme, of N. Elizabeth-st, entertained the members of the Golden Glow club Wednesday afternoon. At the conclusion of the afternoon of music, Mrs. Harvey Reicholt and Mrs. Edward Blair holding high scores, the hostess served a delicious lunch. Mrs. Myers was the only guest.

Next meeting will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Russell Whitney, of E. Kibb-st. Election of officers will take place.

FASHION HINT

(BY MARIAN HALE.)

NEW YORK.—Paris may propose but the American woman certainly will always dispose of fashions.

While the flare coat is the dernier cri, the graceful drape of the loose coat-wrap which was predicted at the beginning of the season as being on the wane—is still worn by many smart American women.

There are many reasons for this—principal among them being the peculiar charm this garment has in accentuating the lines of slender women and concealing the lines of women too plump.

Another reason is comfort. The lovely coat of brown crepe maitresse is combined with metal cloth.

The big kimono-like sleeves, with their gorgeous metalized cuff, the metal touches of the deep monkey-fur collar make it a fashion work of art.

With this coat a brown velvet hat combined with metalized lace and a touch of monkey fur is most effective. The lines of the hat are continental.

destroyed love in many a home.

The rightness or wrongness of the new point of view, as detailed in the above letter, is not here discussed.

Merely the fact is presented that the modern girl is thinking about this subject to some purpose; and it is a fact new to many prospective husbands.

SUSIE SMART SAYS

Dear Miss Smart: I WOULD like to ask you a question hoping that you will give me your viewpoint on this subject. There are so many, many girls who wear certain clothes just because they happen to be the latest degree in fashion, regardless of whether they are becoming or not, they wear them. I have seen girls wear clothes which are ridiculous on them. But of course, they are very interested. Don't you think it would be better if girls and women were more original in their dress?

CURIOUS
Of course, as you say, many girls and women will follow the fashion regardless of figure, face or becomingness. Now this is strictly confidential and shouldn't be repeated but as you probably know there are countless girls and women who are prone to pattern themselves after their ideal movie actress forgetting that perhaps they have not been blessed with the beauty and grace of this admired one. However, a number of authorities on dress are of the belief that women are going thru a period of individuality in everything personal. Most probably they are correct. Some fashion now decrees long flowing sleeves. Many women find the short sleeves more comfortable and practical and hence will continue to wear them. Some women (perhaps not as overwhelmingly large number, but some, understand) cannot wear skirts extremely short and accordingly wear them at a length which is suitable and becoming. Low heeled shoes find favor with many because they are comfortable and certainly far better for one's health. High heels, of course, are more stylish, but many women feel that they can't just as attractively attired, wearing low heels and at the same time enjoying that feeling of solid comfort. After all, there are really many, many sensible girls and women in the world, if one will only look for them.

Dear Miss Smart: I have a navy blue suit that has several spots in it. Will you kindly tell me if you know of anything to take spots out? I have tried several things, but can't remove them.

THANK YOU
Gasoline as a general rule removes spots. If this fails, use the following cleaning solution which is splendid for removing all spots, except ink. One ounce of castile soap, two ounces of ammonia, one ounce of chloroform, one ounce of ether, one ounce of alcohol (grain), one ounce of glycerine and one half gallon of water.

PATTERN FOR TODAY

"This is most extraordinary—most," cried William Delmar. "How did it happen?"

"He claimed acquaintance with me, and wanted me to drink with him."

"No, I didn't. But he took my attention away from the coffee I was drinking and put something in it. I was pretty bad. But I'm all right now."

"William Delmar pled Barry with questions, most of them technical, which were promptly and unhesitatingly answered. Then Barry gave a outline of the methods he had employed in arriving at his process."

"But you had your notes put into me in the 11th and the notes of the New Dye company are dated the 11th," William Delmar continued.

"I have the post marked envelope," asked Barry.

"Have you, Mr. Felton?" asked William Delmar.

"Of course not."

"Who did your typing, Mr. Barry?"

"Miss Kelo."

"Where did you put the type?"

"I left it in Miss Kelo's safe."

"It is a great pity," said William Delmar, "that Miss Kelo is not here."

"I have had a letter from Miss Kelo," said Barry, "to the effect that she would attend this meeting."

"It is a pity—a great pity," William Delmar murmured, "that Miss Kelo has not carried out her expressed intention of meeting us. Well, I don't think that we can do any more today."

In the gray dawn Gelder's power, and two seats out outside the back of flats where Margaret and Nora lived.

From the window Nora saw Margaret and Gelder clamber into the car and slide off.

Margaret fascinated, watched the needle of the speedometer.

The excitement of the race grew on her, helping her to forget her anxiety.

They allowed themselves a pause of barely five minutes to attack the sandwich and Thermos flask with which Nora had provided them. Then on they went again.

Charles Gelder had his eye on the clock.

"Half past 10," he grunted. We're all right. We'll do it."

He had scarcely spoken when there was a loud report behind them. Gelder stopped the car.

"What's the matter? What's happened?" panted Margaret.

"Fire burst. This is the most wicked luck I've ever struck."

"But, never say die. I've got a strategy."

Now Charles Gelder, while an expert driver, had no pretensions to being an expert mechanic and when his job was finished he looked at Margaret, disappointment eloquent on his face.

"Are we too late?" she asked, quickly.

"I'm sorry," he replied, gruffly. "We let you down. They may have dispersed the meeting."

It was 2:30 o'clock when they arrived at the general office of Delmar's Mills.

They alighted and made their enquiries of the commissionaire.

"They've all gone to London—by the 2 o'clock train," said Gelder, "tell me the best hotel in this place and I'll get a room for you there, you for a friend," she said.

His eyes shone. "Keep on saying that, Miss Kelo," he laughed.

Escorted by police, Alice Delmar and Ewart Barry reached her house and found it occupied by a strong guard.

"The girls wouldn't mind if there was a riot every night," laughed Alice Delmar. "They are having the time of their lives with all these big, handsome constables."

When Barry had seen that all was in order he sought out Alice Delmar.

"I think everything is all right for the night now," he said.

As Alice Delmar motioned him to a chair, he said:

"Won't you sit down?" she smiled, and he obeyed.

She lay back in her deep chair, her daintily shod feet on the fender.

"When is this quarrel between you and father's firm to be over?" she asked.

"I do wish it would be soon. You can't help including me among your enemies."

"Indeed I don't!" he protested.

"But you must. I am my father's daughter."

"You're not a bit like him!" he said.

A ripple of laughter broke from Alice Delmar's lips.

"Then for my sake you must make up your quarrel," she said. "You must come here, when father is at home and talk over the whole affair quietly. I don't want you to be angry with us, for—for you saved my life, I believe, tonight. At least you risked your own."

"Please don't refer to that again," begged Ewart Barry.

"Very well. I won't. But I shall never forget. And I want to help you. I believe you are in the right and so—I am on your side."

"Thanks, he murmured. "I'd better be going now," he said.

"If you insist," she said. "But I feel horrid letting you walk back all that way. It may be a long time before we meet again. I wish you—good fortune, Mr. Barry."

As Barry trudged along into the outskirts of the town, he saw before him at the corner of a street, two men who hurriedly separated at his approach.

One man was Tinker Dale. Barry shouted at him and at the sound of his name Tinker Dale threw a startled glance behind him and then took to his heels, hotly pursued by Ewart Barry.

Tinker Dale doubled this way and that until he reached the cobbled street that ran by the side of the canal. Here a constable shouted to them to stop, but Tinker Dale took no heed, and Barry kept up his pursuit.

Suddenly, in the darkest part of the street, Tinker Dale disappeared. Searching the walls of the buildings that faced the canal bank, Barry came upon the open door of a shed.

He stood on the threshold. Fancifully that he heard the sound of laboured breathing on the far side of the shed he strode forward. But his foot met only empty space. A cry rang out from him as he felt himself falling, falling, until he plunged into the icy water of the canal.

Flashing his lantern into the shed the constable saw that a trap door in the middle of the floor was open. The constable peered down the shaft and saw the dim form of Barry clinging to a chain at the side of the what.

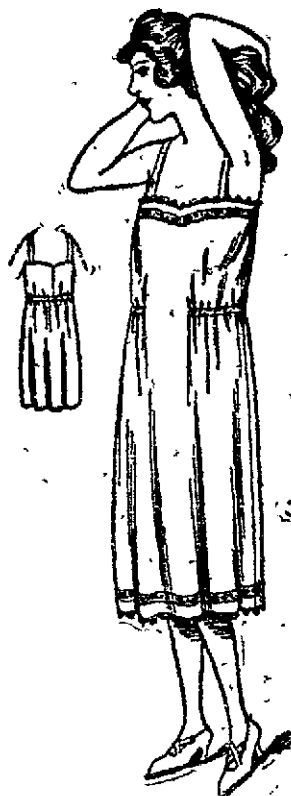

Picking up a coil of rope the constable left the shed and made his way to the wharf side. In a few minutes Ewart Barry had been extricated from the water.

"Now, then, what are you up to?" demanded the constable. Then: "Who is it you, Mr. Barry?"

"That's my name. You're Polson, aren't you?"

"I've got it. What's the game, anyhow?"

and the second best where I'll get a room for myself. We'll dine together. And we'll get back to little old London tomorrow. Things will come all right yet."

Ewart Barry left Grainger's little house at about 8 o'clock and made his way towards his hotel.

To avoid the crowd he skirted down a quiet, old fashioned street. At the door of one of the houses stood a small motor car.

Two shouts burst from the crowd. "There Delmar's daughter!"

"And there's another of the rats—Ewart Barry!"

The crowd came forward at a run. Ewart Barry dashed round the car to the door on the other side, violently thrusting aside those who opposed him. Then he flung open the door.

"Quick! Get out."

Alice Delmar obeyed.

"Now, run."

He caught her arm and they sped down the street, the mob following.

Very well! She raised her head proudly.

Charles Gelder had not missed any details of the little tragic comedy.

From his own point of view he was well satisfied.

When he spoke it was of the events of the evening.

"Stirring times in this little old town," he said facetiously.

"Pity there wasn't an operator on the spot. That's the worst of our line."

"It's a hateful, hateful town," burst out Margaret.

"Well, it's not beautiful," admitted Gelder.

"Never mind, we clear out tomorrow."

"I wish I had never come," said Margaret.

"That was Mr. Barry with Alice Delmar. And—and he did not speak to me."

"Maybe he's feeling a bit sore about things yet."

"It's a shame. I—I have tried to do all I could, and—and—" Margaret stopped.

He rose and took her hand, giving it a reassuring squeeze.

"There, little girl," he said softly. "Don't you worry. And goodnight."

She paused at the open gate of the elevator.

"It is an awful comfort to have you for a friend," she said.

His eyes shone. "Keep on saying that, Miss Kelo," he laughed.

ALUMNI GAME TO BE PLAYED AT COLLEGE

The football game Friday afternoon as a special feature of the "Armistice Day" celebration between the South and Central High schools, will be played at College Field instead of the Murphy-st park. Frank Callahan, chairman of the Armistice Day committee for arranging athletic events, says that the College field would be in better condition than the ball park after the snow. No admission will be charged for the game.

Willard's Delay Causes Rickard To Get Peeved

NEW YORK — Arrangements for a return world's heavyweight championship bout between Champion Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard, former holder of the title, regarded as practically completed a few weeks ago now appears on the verge of dissolution. Promoter Tex Rickard, who planned the battle for July 1 next, in his recent at Jersey city, has exhibited impatience with Willard's delay in returning a signed contract for the battle. Reports have been received here that Willard has made a "strike" in one of his old businesses and if the reports are true it is regarded as unlikely that he will devote the necessary time to training for another match with Dempsey.

Stanis Zbyszko To Defend Title

NEW YORK — Stanislaus Zbyszko, world's champion wrestler, will defend his title against Ed (Strangler) Lewis at Madison Square Garden on November 28. Tex Rickard, promoter, will present the winner of the match with a diamond studded belt.

Billy Evans Bares "Inside Stuff" Of The Diamond

(BY BILLY EVANS.)

SOME more inside stuff. That is the thought of fandon as the catcher stops the game and walks out to confer with the pitcher.

EVANS

There is a conference on the field. They feel that some strategy is being connected, and they would like to be in on the know.

"Looks to me as if you are quitting," says the shortstop.

"If I had as much stuff as you, this club would be lucky to make a foul," adds the third sacker.

That is about the extent of a lot of the so-called inside stuff. There are, however, two reasons for the confab. First, the hope that the delay will give the pitcher a chance to steady himself; second, the hope several years ago at Washington. Was umpiring a series there with Jack Egan. We were having a slow tedious game. Every inning there would be a couple of interruptions by the players. In the eighth inning it looked as if we might get through without a stop. A shout from Egan cutting time, dispelled the belief. I wondered what was the matter. He walked half way down to first base, and then called me over into foul territory.

"What is the trouble, Jack?" I asked.

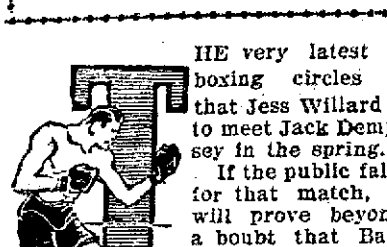

decided they wouldn't have a thing on us. Where will we eat this evening?"

I suggested a place, and we decided on the menu. The game was held up two or three minutes. That a lot of fans were curious as to our conversation was made certain when a fan came up to me in the lobby of my hotel that evening and said:

"I'll bet you and Egan framed a lot of inside stuff when you held that conference in the eighth inning."

TODAY'S SPORT ANGLE

THE very latest in boxing circles is that Jess Willard is to meet Jack Dempsey in the spring. If the public falls for that match, it will prove beyond a doubt that Dempsey has already conclusively proved that Willard is no match for him. A second meeting between the two would simply emphasize the fact.

It is difficult to advance a logical argument for the proposed bout. Possibly all connected might profit financially. Money with a great many people is the big reason. However, for the match to be a success, the public must prove that Barnum was right. A good many fight fans are rather skeptical about Willard's ability as a fighter. Willard is said to have plenty money. If such is the case, the finances have nothing to do with it. It is hard to believe that he relished the trouncing that Dempsey handed him, and is anxious to try all over again.

Perhaps the very best reason could be offered by Willard in his defeat has eliminated him from the sport spotlight. Another match would give Willard a chance to be in the limelight for a time at least. Possibly that is the big idea with the former champ. Certainly, such a bout would not be for sport's sake. Jack Dempsey has it over a other heavyweights like a tent cat. The best in Europe, was a match for Dempsey. Interest in the bout was created by the international flavor and the hard working As a spectacle it was worth while

LIMA-APEX ELEVEN TO OPEN SEASON HERE SUNDAY

The Lima-Apex football team, recognized as the representative gridiron squad of the city, will play their first home game of the season at Murphy-st ball park Sunday afternoon with the Sidney eleven as their opponents.

Members of the team decided to change the name of the organization from The Lima City team to the Lima-Apex team Monday night as a respect to Charley Malzen, who is lending his financial support to put independent football on a higher plane in this city.

Malzen is owner of the Apex Skirt, Dress and Waist Factory. Cree Swisher, of the Buckeye Pine Line company, former coach of Central Hi's football squad, took charge of the team at the start of the season and by Sunday he expects to have a strong independent, platoon aggregation on the field.

This game team was defeated by Sidney in the first game of the season 9 to 0. Sunday they expect to redeem lost honors and believe that by fighting every inch of the way they will be able to send the visitors back to Sidney-co with the short end of the score.

The field at Murphy-st park is being leveled and put in good shape for football. Coach Swisher expects to be ready to announce his positive line-up by Friday.

Organization Of Boxers And Fans Is Gotham Plan

NEW YORK — Plans for the formation of a state organization of boxing promoters, managers, boxers, seconds and boxing fans, were under way today as the result of a meeting of sport enthusiasts last night. Senator James A. Walker, author of the present state boxing law, made the principal address. The name "Federation of Professional Sports" was suggested for the organization, which its founders hope will eventually develop into a national body.

Billy Gibson presided at the meeting. Billy Leonard and Jack Britton, boxing champions, pledged their support to the enterprise. A committee of fifteen was appointed to adopt a declaration of principles. The first meeting of the committee will be held Sunday night.

PLAYS FOOTBALL IN AGONY OF PAIN

PHILADELPHIA — Rex Weay, captain of the University of Pennsylvania football team has been playing for three weeks with two broken ribs, which he suffered in the game with Swarthmore on October 15. Since then he has played hard games against Virginia Military Institute, Pittsburgh and Lafayette.

His injury did not become known until yesterday when coaches noticed him walking around his dressing room, apparently in pain.

Owens Feared

CINCINNATI — Coach Boyd Chambers is driving the University of Cincinnati football team hard this week with the idea of turning in his first victory over his old school when Denison comes here Saturday.

Yip Owens, captain and end of the Granville crew is most feared by the bearcats, who have not forgotten how Owens took a forward pass for a long gain and a touchdown two years ago, and repeated the performance last season, scoring a marker that was in a large measure responsible for the lopsided defeat handed Cincinnati by Denison.

LEAVE FOR U. S. MONTREAL.—Arthur J. Balfour and his colleagues of the British delegation to the Washington conference on limitation of armaments left Montreal for the American capital early today.

The party will reach Weehawken, N. J., late this evening, where their two special cars will be attached to a Washington train and the journey will be continued without stopping at New York.

BRITISH AND AMERICANS CROSS SWORDS AS DIPLOMATS TALK DISARMAMENT

WASHINGTON — While the United States and Great Britain are seeking to reach an understanding on limitation of armaments, representatives of both nations will pit their skill at arms against one another in a series of fencing matches this month.

The first two or three international bouts will be held at the Racket Club here, Nov. 18 and 19. The third will be held at the Hotel Astor, New York, Nov. 24. Rapier, foil and sabre will be used.

This year's bouts are the first of a series of British-American fencing meets which will be held every four years in the future, taking place between the Olympic games.

Major F. W. Honeycutt, of the War Department, will act as captain of the American fencing team. Remaining members of the team have not yet been announced.

Colonel Ronald B. Campbell of the Gordon Highlanders will lead the British team. Campbell is director of physical and recreational training in the British army and navy.

He was army and navy middleweight boxing champion 1905-8, services saber fencing champion 1919, army bayonet fencing champion 1921 and won fencing honors at the Olympic games this year.

Twelve men will serve on each of the two teams. Four will wield the foil, four the sabre and four the rapier.

Major F. W. Honeycutt, captain of the American team, has become a fencing devotee as a sport.

"It is true that the sword is used hardly at all in warfare," he says, "and even the cavalry has abandoned its traditional sabre as a weapon. But that hasn't killed fencing."

Replogle stated Thursday that they will accept this ticket for admission into any of three basketball games to be played in Lima during the holidays.

WHAT AILS MICHIGAN?

WHAT is the matter with Michigan? That is the college yell of the Michigan alumni all over the country, and through the west in particular.

The decisive defeat of Michigan at the hands of Ohio State University supplied the reason for the new Ann Arbor yell.

It is an admitted fact Michigan has a wealth of football material. For that reason it was believed that Yost's pupils had a great chance to annex the Western Conference title. The game with Ohio State was to be the stepping stone.

Michigan looked liked anything but a great team against Ohio State.

There was an absolute lack of cohesion. There was no drive to the team. As a matter of fact Michigan's style of play took one back to the old high school days, when a conference was necessary on most every lineup, to decide who would carry the ball.

Michigan lacked initiative and aggressiveness. The old "hurry up system" was but a memory. Like the Potomac high school eleven, there was a conference prior to almost every play. Michigan certainly didn't look like a team well versed in football. A lot of the athletes acted as if they didn't know their lesson.

Fieldings Yost put Michigan on the map as far as football is concerned. Yost has been, and still is, a great coach. Yost, however, is getting up in years. It is possible, that in a measure he has cultivated his usefulness as a football coach at Michigan. It is to be regretted that a coach who has won so many honors should in his late years suffer so many reverses to mar his great record.

Sharkey To Fight Buff For Honors

LEFT, COLONEL RONALD B. CAMPBELL, CAPTAIN OF THE BRITISH FENCING TEAM; RIGHT, MAJOR F. W. HONEYCUTT, CAPTAIN OF THE AMERICAN TEAM.

(By HENRY L. FARRELL) NEW YORK — Broadway is the poorest training ground in the world.

Even in these rather tame days what is left of the old bright light of the gay white way does not seem to condition an athlete.

The "old-timers" tell this, but the youngsters don't always listen. The little bantam, Jack Sharkey, the most popular boxer in New York, didn't listen and he lost two great chances for the crown of the Middleweights.

Proving the exception to the old line about opportunity knocks but once, Sharkey gets his second chance tonight, in Madison Square Garden when he goes into the ring with Johnny Buff, holder of the flyweight and bantamweight titles.

NEVER HAD CHANCE. Sharkey was just one of the these little fellows who can be found hanging around any gymnasium in any town. He had "some stuff" but he never had a chance to get it out.

Sharkey left New York and he was never missed until he made his first night jump into a ring, by beating Jimmy Wilde, the British flyweight champion out in Milwaukee.

HE FELL FLAT. His thrilling 15-round draw with Joe Lynch in the Garden is still remembered and the events that followed are still being held up as examples by managers with poor prospects.

Having more money than he ever dreamed of before, Sharkey is on Broadway. The public demanded another Sharkey-Lynch go and he bowed and he went back to work.

His third chance for the title is just as good as the other chances. All the other bantams have been clamoring for the first crack at Buff, but fate was kind to him and he is the lucky one.

Oberlin And Miami Are Tied In Ohio Conference For Top Place

With the 1921 football season on the wane, next Saturday's contests bring the race for the Ohio Conference championship into its final stages with apparently little prospect of a break in the tie for leadership.

Oberlin and Miami, putting seasoned teams on the field, jumped into the lead at the start and have battled neck and neck ever since, each having won five victories and suffered no defeats.

Next Saturday's schedule, which brings Oberlin against Case and Miami against Mt. Union, gives little indication that either will be forced to admit defeat and general consensus is made that both will finish the season with their records unmarred.

The Miami game will be played at Alliance and Oberlin will go to Cleveland.

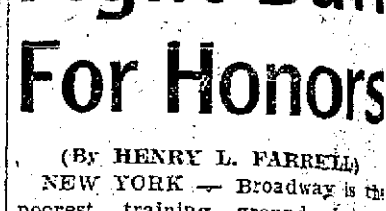

KENYON HAS FOUR TIES. Kenyon, the only other conference machine which has escaped defeat so far, has the unusual record of having played four tie games, and therefore is out of the running as far as title honors are concerned.

The Gambier team, which in its last appearance played a scoreless tie against Wittenberg, will face Hiram next Saturday at Hiram, with prospects of having an easy time of it.

WOOSTER VS. AKRON. Wooster, which was forced to admit the supremacy of Oberlin after a great battle last Saturday, will furnish what should be one of the interesting contests of the week-end, and a real battle in its meeting with Akron at Wooster. Akron, like the Presbyterians, has played some good football during the season.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Howard Dean, Lima Trust company, tells about a friend who hid a keg of month-old cider in a closet while his aunt, with strict prohibition views, was visiting at his home.

"She might not have known about it at all," the party said, "if I hadn't plugged the keg so tight. But the house was warm and the cider blew the bung out, with a bang."

A. L. Fisher, washing machine agent, whose wife left him standing on a corner, picked up a dime and placed it in his pocket.

Looking down, he saw another dime and pocketed that.

Art was picking up a third coin when he found that he had a hole in his pocket and had been feeding the same dime thru it.

Dr. E. C. Yingling, fannal naturalist and sportsman, reports he found a place where he expects to have good rabbit shooting this fall.

"Plenty of rabbits there," he says, "In fact, too many, if anything. Go out for a walk and you stumble over them."

R. R. Trubey, attorney, reports a girl friend who had an automatic piano repaired for a Halloween party.

"It ran fine," he says, "except that the repairman reversed the mechanism so that the piano played the music backward."

He needs it—
"The Iron Food for Vitality"

Iron and Energy

—give them to your husband in a pie that he'll crave because of its luscious flavor

THE man for whom you choose the food, madam, depends largely on you to keep him fit for the modern business grind.

He needs foods that give him luscious flavor to enjoy, and energy and iron to refresh and vitalize him.

Raisin pie is prime food in both respects.

Raisins are rich in iron. Men need but a small bit of iron daily, yet that need is vital. Raisins furnish 1,560 calories of energizing nutriment per pound—in practically pre-digested form.

So this pie is ideal dessert for the hard-worked, tired man at night.

Make according to the recipe shown here. You don't know real raisin pie, nor does he, until you've tried this kind. You'll serve it at least once a week at his request.

You'll please him and improve him, and you'll enjoy the pie yourself.

Delicious raisin pie and raisin bread are sold by bake shops and groceries everywhere. Buy of them to save baking at home.

Real raisin pie is made with lots of raisins. Insist on it. First-class bakers do not stint.

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins, made from California's finest table grapes—American raisins, processed and packed immaculately in a great modern California plant.

Seeded (seeds removed); Seedless (grown without seeds); Clusters (on the stem). Also a fine, ever-ready dessert.

Raisins are cheaper by 30 percent than formerly—see that you get plenty in your foods.
